LOW HAS RESIGNED.

Not From the Mayoralty Campaign, but From Columbia.

LETTER HE HANDED TO THE TRUSTEES

The Opinion Is Freely Expressed by a Trustee That the Resignation Will Not Be Accepted Should He Win or Lose.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—At a meeting of the trustees of Columbia university yesterday President Low handed to the board the following letter:

"As I have felt constrained by a sense of public duty to accept the nomination for mayor of the city of New York at the hands of the Citizens' union, I feel it to be my duty to the university to place in your hands, for such action as you may see fit to take, my resignation as president of the university.

"I need not say that nothing but a deep sense of the imperative nature of the call to public duty would have led me to accept the nomination."

The letter was referred to a committee of five, which was appointed by Chairman Schermerhorn and which will make a report Nov. 15.

It was said that an agreement had been reached by which the matter will be left in abeyance until after election, when, if Mr. Low is defeated, he will be asked to withdraw his resignation.

A trustee of Columbia university made a statement before the meeting began as to what he believed would be the action of the trustees in relation to President Low's candidacy for the mayoralty.

"In the first place," he said, "there isn't any reason in the world to believe that President Low entertains a thought of withdrawing from the mayoralty campaign. He certainly stands a fair chance of being elected. He realizes this, to put it no stronger, and he will surely continue to the end.

"Now, as to the action of the trustees—and in this I am simply giving my views—I am convinced that they will not accept President Low's resignation, either at this meeting or at any other time through the campaign, nor should the campaign result in his election. There is surely no reason why he should resign now, because between now and election he can be spared from the university, as it is not necessary for a president to be there constantly. More than that, he would be in town, so that he could be called upon should any emergency arise.

"Now, suppose that he should be elected. Then I believe the trustees would ask him to accept a four years' leave of absence, and it would be as though he were on a long vacation. He would continue as president of the college, yet at the same time his duties would be delegated to another, and he would be able to devote himself entirely to the task of governing the Greater New York. At the same time the fact that he was in the city would give confidence to him who should be acting president, being assured that he could at almost a moment's notice consult with Mr. Low should a consultation be necessary.

"I feel convinced that the trustees will look upon the matter in this way, and that they will resolutely and unanimously refuse to accept the resignation which Mr. Low will offer."

Citizens' Union Recommendations.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The committee on organization of the Citizens' union met last night in Hardman hall here and received a report from the executive committee recommending the following candidates for city, county and judiciary offices on the ticket headed by Seth Low: President of the council, John H. Schuman; comptroller, Charles S. Fairchild; district attorney, Austen G. Fox; county clerk, Benjamin E. Hall; sheriff, Edward F. McSweeney; register, Richard H. Adams; judges of the supreme court, Charles A. Van Brunt and George P. Andrews; judges of the city court, Joseph Fettretch and S. Stalnwood Menken; president of the borough, Robert M. Hoguet; coroners, Alfred E. Thayer, Dr. Cyrus J. Strong, Dr. Levi F. Warren and William H. Terry.

They Indorse Low.

BROOKLYN, Oct. 5.—The committee of fifty, which is the Citizens' union organization of this city, met and indorsed the city ticket as nominated by the Citizens' union in New York city. A committee of five was then appointed to meet a committee of like number of the National Democratic party in this city and endeavor to arrange a county ticket.

People's League Nominates George.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The executive committee of the People's league, the local organization of the Populist party, last night nominated Henry George for mayor. Henry George was also officially indorsed for mayor at the meeting of Local Assembly 1,563, Knights of Labor, held at 154 East Fifty-fourth street, here.

Indorsed Parker and Silver.

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 5.—The Otsego county Democratic convention met here and nominated G. Hyde Clark of Springfield for member of the assembly and adopted resolutions indorsing the Chicago platform and the nomination of Judge Parker by the Democratic state committee.

HUNDREDS HOMELESS.

The Little Town of Austin, Pa., Is Visited by Fire.

AUSTIN, Pa., Oct. 5.—Fire broke out yesterday afternoon in Weed's livery stable on Turner street. In five hours' time every building on the street but five was leveled to the ground. Turner street was the principal residence street of the town, and the loss is a sad blow. Probably 500 people are now homeless.

The fire was started by a load of hay being run into a gas jet. The load was backed into a barn and the team left standing while the driver was preparing to unload.

In this way the second great fire in the history of this village was started. In all about 100 buildings were burned, mostly residences.

Among the larger losses are the Methodist church, Presbyterian church, opera house, Welch's meat market, Hellwig's drug store, Gallup's livery and Weed's livery.

The loss is placed by insurance experts at from $150,000 to $200,000.

The buildings that were burned were for the most part occupied by employees of the big Goodyear lumber mills, and the loss will therefore be all the more keenly felt.

The great difficulty in coping with the fire was the fact that the only fire protection in the town was that furnished by the Goodyear mills, and the 400 men employed there were ordered out to try and stop the progress of the fire.

It was found necessary, in order to save the business portion of the town, to blow up a drug store with dynamite.

WERE NOT KILLED.

Cavandish and Lieutenant Andrew, However, Had Trouble Enough.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—A letter was received here from Kikuyu, British East Africa, which disposes of the story received at Rome from Benadir, saying that the Cavandish sporting expedition, which left Berbera, East Africa, last year, had been attacked by a band of Amharas, who murdered all the members of the expedition, consisting of two Englishmen and 90 Ascaras.

The later news says that Cavandish, who is a nephew of the Duke of Devonshire, and Lieutenant Andrew, his companion, arrived at Kikuyu on Aug. 5, after a trip around Lake Rudolph, which up to that time had not been explored.

Their head man incited the Ascaras to mutiny, and the two Englishmen were forced to yield to their demands, but, near Kikuyu, Cavandish and Andrew seized the two ringleaders, who have since been sent to the coast for trial.

The expedition discovered a new lake and two active volcanoes.

Fatal Dakota Fire.

MILLER, S. D., Oct. 5.—Persons just in from 20 miles north state that as a result of a big prairie fire one man has died and three others may die. TO READ AND WRITE.

Connecticut Law on Voters' Qualifications Amended.

THE RESULT OF STATE ELECTIONS.

In Some Sections There Were Surprising Changes, Notably In Middletown, Where the Republican Town Clerk of Thirty Years Was Defeated.

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 5.—Connecticut's "little town" elections were held yesterday, and while in some sections there were surprising turnovers, the results show that the change from the vote of a year ago is not very great. The cities of New Haven, Hartford, Bridgeport, Ansonia and Derby and the town of Naugatuck did not vote for officers of the town governments, but they, with all of the 168 towns of the state, voted on the proposed constitutional amendment, to the effect that voters must be able to read any portion of the constitution and statutes of the state, and must also be able to write. The amendment was carried by an overwhelming majority.

The little towns, together with all of the cities except the ones stated above, elected town governments and voted on the license question. License prevails in most places, and very few of the towns changed their position on the question. A rather light vote was polled, and the few contests which took place were made on lines altogether local, with no national issues at stake.

In New London, Cyrus G. Beckwith, who is a Democrat, won hands down in the mayoralty contest, and the town went Democratic.

Middletown underwent a Democratic sweep, the Republican incumbent of the town clerkship for 30 years being defeated. The Republicans secured a few minor offices there, but it was a Democratic day.

In Norwalk and South Norwalk city elections were held, and the Democrats won in both places. The rest of the ticket in those places was divided.

Sectionally considered, Fairfield county showed the greatest Democratic gains. In that county the Republicans elected their men last year in 16 towns. This year they are successful in but nine, with five towns missing, including Stamford.

The northern counties of the state, especially Hartford county, proved to be as Republican as ever, with almost no changes.

In Danbury the Republican candidate for the town clerkship surprised every one by being elected, while the rest of the ticket was defeated. In Newton 277 votes were not counted because of alleged illegality in the printing of the ballots.

With all but a few isolated towns heard from the indications are that the Republicans generally held their own, making enough slight gains in places to counterbalance the larger Democratic gains.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 5.—Thomas Adair of this city visited his old home at Elm Grove Sunday to go to church. During the service he was attacked by Paul Williams, one of his tenants. Williams fired several shots at Adair, but none took effect. Adair then shot Williams dead. Two brothers of the dead man started after Adair, who fled to the town of Flatonia and gave himself up to officers there.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Romeo Weisenberg, 11 years old, became violently insane yesterday afternoon at the home of his parents, 153 Ludlow street, from constantly brooding over his inability to get into one of the public schools, and was taken to Bellevue hospital and placed in a ward. When school opened he was one of those who were excluded because of the congested state of the schools in the neighborhood.

IMPEACHING WITNESSES.

The Luetgert Defense Abandons Its Expert Testimony In a Hurry.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—An unexpected turn of affairs occurred in the Luetgert trial during yesterday afternoon's session of court. The defense, after examining one expert, suddenly dropped its line of expert testimony and put on witnesses to impeach the evidence of witnesses for the state.

Professor William Hall of the Northwestern Dental college, an expert in chemistry, gave scientific testimony with reference to the action of potash upon false teeth and the plates to which they are attached. It was his opinion that the potash solution in the vat in which Mrs. Luetgert's body is said to have been dissolved was not of sufficient destructive power to seriously affect the teeth, but it would undoubtedly either destroy or greatly damage the plates.

David Victor, a carpenter who lives in the vicinity of the Luetgert sausage factory, was called upon to tell whether he had ever observed Mrs. Luetgert in a sad or morose condition of mind. He said he had not.

Frank Geyster, who was employed in the grocery department of Luetgert's sausage factory, told of seeing Luetgert around the factory during the forenoon of May 2 as usual. The sausagemaker seemed to be in his usual frame of mind, according to the witness.

There is a rumor to the effect that a woman has been found at Lincoln, Ills., who will go on the witness stand and testify that she was the woman seen by the police and others at Kenosha, Wis., on May 3, 4 and 5. Captain Schuetler had a talk with this woman on Sunday.

BIG FIRE IN TORONTO.

Convicts In Central Prison Had a Narrow Escape.

TORONTO, Oct. 5.—Fire at the Central prison here yesterday afternoon did nearly $60,000 worth of damage. It started in the dry kiln of the broom factory, a three-story structure to the west of the main prison, and the 80 convicts and their guards working there had barely time to escape with their lives. A steady southwest wind was blowing at the time, and this fact, combined with a lack of adequate water pressure, gave the fire a big start.

It quickly spread to the rope factory to the east and to the lumber piles to the west. The fire in the rope factory was confined to the cupola, but the valuable machinery was seriously damaged by water.

The fire was got under control after reducing the broom factory to the bare walls and destroying half the lumber in store. The losses to the contractors in the various industries are covered by insurance, but the loss to the government on buildings will be total.

SHIPHERD ARRESTED.

Sudden Sequel to the Civil Suit Brought Against Him.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 5.—As a sequel to the suit brought by Frank de Haas Robison, the baseball magnate, John J. Shipherd, a railway promoter, was arrested yesterday on a charge of embezzlement. He was bailed out on $10,000 bonds. The charge grew out of the business dealings of the two men.

At the same time as the arrest Mr. Robison filed a petition asking for the appointment of a receiver for the brokerage firm of Charles H. Potter & Co., of which Shipherd was the manager.

It is claimed the firm converted to their own use securities owned by Mr. Robison.

TRAIN STRUCK THEM

Wagon at a Crossing Smashed to Pieces.

SIX OF ITS OCCUPANTS WERE KILLED

Another Was Fatally Injured—In a Railway Accident at Piqua, O., an Engineer and a Fireman Were Hurled Many Feet.

WILLOW SPRINGS, Mo., Oct. 5.—A passenger train on the Kansas City, Fort Scott and Memphis railway ran into a wagon containing seven persons at Dead Man's cut, three miles north of here, instantly killing six and fatally injuring the other one.

Those killed were Philip L. Wooton, Philip Wooton, Jr., Amanda Wooton, Dora Wooton, Mrs. Francis Malbrey and an infant child 4 months old.

Philip Wooton's wife is so badly hurt that she cannot live.

The train was stopped, and the remains of the dead and injured were brought here. Conductor Hallaway says proper signals for crossing were given, but they were not heard. The crossing is considered one of the most dangerous in the country, being a curve and heavy grade.

The bodies are now in charge of the coroner here. The persons killed lived in Texas county, Mo., and were on their way to Arkansas to pick cotton.

PIQUA, O., Oct. 5.—The Panhandle passenger train, No. 21, west bound, was wrecked two and a half miles east of this city. The train was coming down grade at the rate of 40 miles an hour, and in crossing the frog of the Jordan switch left the track.

The engineer had the presence of mind to shut off the steam and apply the air brakes. The engine continued, notwithstanding, at a terrific rate of speed, tearing up the tracks and plowing the ground at a frightful rate. For 570 feet the engine bumped over the ties and then went into the ditch at the side of the main track. The tender went in the opposite direction, while the baggage car was thrown crosswise of the track. Two day coaches were derailed and crushed together.

The Pullman cars were also derailed, but they escaped with little damage.

Eli Carroll of Logansport, the engineer in charge, was hurled 50 feet and fell on a portion of his cab. Fireman John Baird of Logansport was pitched 75 feet over into a field.

The engineer sustained a terrible scalp wound, remaining unconscious for some time.

The fireman was hurt internally. Both were brought to this city and placed under the care of a physician. C. S. McGown, the baggage master, whose home is at Logansport, was injured about the hip as the result of being penned in between trunks.

A wrecking crew from Bradford, and also from Columbus, was immediately summoned. A special train was provided to carry the passengers, all of whom escaped with but slight injuries, to their destinations.

To Purchase American Railway.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The Daily Chronicle publishes under reserve a sensational report that a strong London syndicate has sent the United States government, through Consul General Osborne, an offer to purchase the Union Pacific railroad. According to this report, a New York syndicate has offered £9,000,000, and the government has decided to sell the road at auction on Nov. 1, believing that it will realize at least £10,000,000 and perhaps £11,000,000 or £12,000,000.

Senator Charged With Bribery.

READING, Pa., Oct. 5.—State Senator Miller of this district and Daniel W. Reeser, Democratic nominee for recorder, have been arrested, charged with bribery. Eli Sawyer, who was a candidate for recorder before the last Democratic convention, alleges that he withdrew in favor of Reeser and sold him his delegates for a promise of $1,000. The accused were held in $1,000 bail each. They deny the charges.

Patent Suit For Millions.

BUFFALO, Oct. 5.—The summons and complaint in the biggest lawsuit ever brought in Buffalo or in western New York has been filed in the United States court. The amount which it is sought to recover is the enormous sum of $1,545,000. The defendants to the action are the firm of R. Hoffeld & Co. It is alleged that the firm has violated the revised statutes of the United States relating to patents.

Thorn Murder Trial.

A KLONDIKE TROLLEY

Scheme For the Transportation of Miners' Kits.

PASSENGERS WILL NOT BE CARRIED.

An Interesting Interview With One of Those Most Interested In the Undertaking, Who Declares It Will Be Perfectly Practicable.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Captain John Irving of the Victoria and Sitka Steamship company, commander of The Islander, is at the Fifth avenue hotel. Said Captain Irving in an interview:

"There will be a railroad over the passes and down the Yukon to the foot of the White Horse rapids before midsummer next. This enterprise is partly responsible for my visit to New York. It will be an overhead trolley, chiefly for freight, and will simplify the trip to Dawson City to such an extent that we shall carry goods down the Yukon instead of up the river from St. Michaels. On my first trip to that port early in June I shall carry lumber for barges, which will be taken to the upper Yukon. After the railroad is built our boats will rarely descend below Fort Yukon. The barges will be floated or pushed downstream from the end of the carrying trolley and towed back. We shall be able to make several of these short trips per month. There will be no fear of provisions running short then."

"Will the building of the freight trolley be an expensive undertaking?" was asked.

"On the contrary, it will be very inexpensive," replied Captain Irving. "Remember, it will not carry passengers. The system employed so successfully for transporting ore and coal will be used. The packages will not exceed 200 pounds, and will be carried on an overhead wire, propelled by a series of endless cables. Elevations and steep grades are not factors in this method of transportation. The trees along the route will serve to support the carriers.

"A large storehouse can be erected at the terminus and the goods shipped through in all ordinary winter weather. This will do away with the hardships of the trip. Any man can walk over the Chilkat pass if he is unincumbered. Twenty miles of climbing from Dyea takes him over that obstacle; then the lakes and rivers do the rest. We will undertake to deliver his supplies ahead of his arrival."

A letter was received in this city yesterday from Captain Francis Tuttle, commanding the revenue cutter Bear, written at St. Michaels, mouth of the Yukon, on Sept. 9 last. Captain Tuttle since last heard from had made an arctic cruise. On reaching St. Michaels this second time he found, he states, a motley, lawless crowd, and one which was able to do pretty much as it pleased.

The greatest anxiety prevailed among the representatives of the big trading companies. Their storehouses were full of provisions, ample to carry all through the winter who stopped at St. Michaels, provided that the same were carefully measured out.

The fear of the traders arose over the threats of the crowd to break in the storehouses if provisions were not forthcoming in sufficient quantities. "The situation," Captain Tuttle pointedly writes, "changed as soon as the Bear put in an appearance."

Captain Tuttle declares that there will be a great shortage of food the coming winter on the Yukon. Even were the river now open it would be impossible, he declares, with the transportation facilities at hand, to get enough provisions up the Yukon for those already there.

The Trail Impracticable.

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 5.—J. J. McArthur, who went over the Skagguay trail for the Dominion government, says that the Skagguay trail is an impracticable one, horses dying and being killed by the hundreds, there being no food for them beyond the summit. Alexander Trainer, who has also been on the Dominion government survey) says that the Stickeen route is the best, it being one that can be used as far as Hootalinqua river all winter. Collector of Customs Milner received a letter from the Canadian customs officials at Tagish lake, stating that he was about to forward $10,000, the amount of duty collected from prospectors who took American goods over the Skagguay and Dyea trails on their way to Klondike. Mr. Trainer states that 2,000 men have passed Telegraph creek, bound for Klondike by all Canadian routes.

CROSSING ICE FIELDS.

That Is What Herr Andree Probably Is Doing Just Now.

Friends Believe in the Safety of the Intrepid Explorer—He Was Prepared for All Emergencies with Practical Safeguards.

The latest belief in Stockholm is that Herr Andree is returning to civilization and is at the present moment crossing the ice fields. Here are the newest views. Also, extracts from a letter to a friend, which will be received with great interest:

That Andree will ultimately return to civilization I find to be generally believed in Sweden, and from no one have come more positive statements than those made to me by Baron Nordenskjold. The intimate friend of Andree, thoroughly familiar with his hopes and his plans, and above all, a clear-headed practical person, Baron Nordenskjold says nothing which is not worth considering. When I asked him if he really expected to see Andree again he said: "Why, certainly I do. The constant assertion that he is dead amuses rather than saddens me. I know the man, his plans, his theories, his hopes, his indomitable courage, all of which to one who thoroughly understands the expedition and all of which it consists, renders his success not only possible, but exceedingly probable.

"It is my belief that Andree is at the present moment upon ice which has hitherto been untrodden by the foot of man. You must remember that the balloon under ordinary conditions would remain in the air 24 days. Inasmuch as the distance from the point of embarkation near Tromsoe was not more than 700 miles from the supposed location of the pole as the crow flies, it seems to me the minimum degree of reason to believe that Andree has not only reached the pole, but concluded his observations there and begun his journey to Siberia, from which land I believe we shall hear from him by the time spring rolls around."

Dr. Nils Ekholm, who accompanied Herr Andree to Spitzbergen last year with the intention of taking part in his aerial voyage, talked with me on the prospects of the expedition based on the facts of Andree's ascent. Dr. Ekholm declined to go this year because he considered that the impermeability of the balloon was unsatisfactory. He pointed out that from the day the balloon was fully inflated it lost 51 cubic meters of gas every 24 hours, representing a diminution in carrying capacity of 56 kilograms per day. This showed that the imperviousness of the balloon had not been essentially increased since last year.

Besides this daily escape, various circumstances led to a certain loss of gas in the ascent itself, necessitating a corresponding sacrifice of ballast. After making allowances for these losses of gas and taking into consideration the fact that in the ascent parts of the drag ropes were lost and that the balloon at once rose to a height of 15,000 to 25,000 feet, Dr. Ekholm formed the following conclusions: The longest time which the balloon would remain in the air would be from 22 to 24 days, and even less than that if mountains exceeding the height of those attained at the start had to be crossed. Dr. Ekholm declares himself skeptical with regard to the supposed loss of the balloon in the White sea, but he proposes, nevertheless, that a search expedition should be sent to the White sea from Vardoe.

Since it was reported that Andree had provided himself with a number of homing pigeons which he intended to dispatch from his balloon while en route to the north pole, with information as to his success or otherwise, it has been impossible to pick up a paper without finding a telegram from some part of the globe announcing the capture of a "homer" which it is invariably suggested may have come from the pole or thereabouts.

One thing may be depended upon, however, and that is that not a single pigeon that Andree took with him in the balloon has yet been heard from. The stories to the contrary are unblushing falsehoods.

Bacteria in Writing Fluids

It has been proved by microscopic examination that ink is liable to contain pathogenic bacteria. Dr. Marpmann, of Liepsig, has lately published the results of examination of 67 samples of ink used in the schools. Saprophytes, bacteria and micrococci were found in most of them. In two instances the doctor succeeded in cultivating a bacillus from migrosin ink, which proved fatal to mice within four days. But most of the bacteria are harmless, and it has been ascertained by the actual experiment of some eminent New York scientists that in many varieties of ink used in that city, which they tested, there were no disease germs. However, a pen which has been dipped in ink should never be moistened with the tongue.

SAMARITAN WAS SHOCKED.

All of His Good Advice Seemed to Be Useless.

The man who knew a little of everything looked at the passenger in the seat ahead of him and finally leaned forward, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Excuse me," he said, "but you really ought to shake off the cares of business and go somewhere for complete rest and quiet."

"You mind your own affairs," said the other man, gruffly.

The sympathetic passenger looked hurt.

"Of course," he said, "your case is nothing to me. I only proffered the advice in a spirit of friendliness. At the same time, anybody can see at a glance that you are suffering from too close confinement."

"There now, let up on that," said the gruff man. "I don't want any more of your chaff."

"What's money to a man in your condition?" said the sympathetic passenger, without heeding the rebuke.

"Mighty little," growled the gruff passenger.

"You'll never pardon yourself for this neglect," said the sympathetic passenger.

"I wish I could," said the gruff man.

"What you need is to get out and drink in the free air of nature," said the sympathetic passenger.

"You bet it is," chuckled the gruff man.

His chuckle turned to a laugh that shook him so thoroughly that something tinkled at his wrists. He held up his arms, and lo! he was handcuffed! Turning to the horrified passenger, he hoarsely whispered:

"Ten years in the pen; ha, ha, ha!"

And the sympathetic philanthropist sunk back in his seat dumb with horror.

Air in Lumps.

"Compressing air until it will remain compressed without any pressure upon it," are the few words with which a writer in the Electrical Engineer describes the new product, "aerine," or liquefied air—remarking that, though requiring an enormous pressure to get it in such a form, it will remain there for some time in the open air; that is, until it gets heat enough from the surrounding air to turn again into its natural state. It will turn mercury into a solid form as soon as it is poured into it, and freeze a thermometer rapidly. Such is the assumed prospective usefulness of this liquid that predictions are made of distant water powers now running to waste being soon employed compressing the very air we breathe into a liquid form and shipping it to all parts of the globe for industrial purposes.

TOMPKINS' NEW DRY GOODS STORE,

No 8 East Main Street, Middletown.

We sell goods cheaper than any other store but for cash only. Why? Because we give no credit and do not have to make up losses made in this way, nor to earn the expenses of a special bookkeeping department for credit accounts, nor earn the expenses of a collector by charging high prices for our goods. We sell goods cheaper than other stores because we have a resident buyer in New York city, who is always on the lookout for any reliable merchandise that can be bought below regular prices and in this way we often get goods that we retail much below what other merchants are obliged to pay for the same goods at wholesale.

MOUNT SALEM.

Corn Caught by Frost—Raised Large Crops of Grain—A Series of Accidents—Sent Back to Newton Jail—Other Notes.

Correspondence ARGUS and MERCURY.

—The frost of Saturday night caught a good many farmers with their corn not cut and killed vegetation generally.

—Frank Dillison, on the mountain road, has been buying a new threshing machine on account of his having gone extensively into the raising of buckwheat this year. His yield will count well up in the hundreds of bushels and he has other grain in proportion. Mr. Dillison is a hustler at farming and the country needs more like him.

—The little son of Peter E. Carpenter, near this place, fell from a high place in the barn, one day last week, knocking out one of his teeth and bruising him quite badly. In going for the doctor John Crowell was riding so fast through Mount Salem that, unguiding his horse, he ran into the picket fence of Isaac Winters, breaking two panels and smashing things generally. The rider escaped injury, though he fell over the horse's head, but the horse was considerably scratched, though not seriously injured.

—Two intoxicated men visited Horace Carpenter's place, Friday night, after dark. Hearing a fracas with the dog, Mr. Carpenter went out to see what the trouble was, when the men threatened to shoot the dog and did strike Mr. Carpenter a severe blow, cutting his lip and chin quite badly. He immediately sent for a constable, and Saturday had the men arrested, the appeared against them and had them sent to Newton jail where they will not be apt to get any more hard cider for some time at least.

—Charles Casterline, of Geneva, N. Y., is visiting his mother at this place for a week or ten days. He will return to Geneva this week.

—Miss Bertha Courtright, accompanied by her neice, Hazel Connelly, of Middletown, is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Moses Cole, below Mount Salem.

—Mrs. Ira Corwin, of New York city, who has been spending the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ransom Wilcox, on the Mountain road, was summoned by telegraph on account of sickness in her family, a few days ago, and took the first train home.

—Bert Simpson, of Newark, has been visiting his parents on the Mountain road, near this place.

—The subject for next Sunday evening's sermon at the church here will be: "Woman—not the woman of the nineteenth century or the bicycle woman, but woman as she is and should be."

—Lawyer G. H. Decker and wife and John A. Wallace and wife, of Middletown, were in town Sunday calling on friends.

—G. H. Miller and family, of Middletown, are spending a few days at the residence of Geo. B. McKuey, at this place.

—Mrs. Alfred A. Barclay, of Brooklyn, who has been spending a week with her sister, Mrs. T. M. Roberson, returned home Saturday evening.

—Miss Lizzie Good and Miss Gertrude Solman, of Newburgh, are spending a week at the home of John Anderson, near this place.

—The stealing of the flag from the school house of District No. 8, in our village, a week ago, has caused a great deal of excitement about our village and we hear that the thief is known and the whereabouts of the flag is soon to be discovered.

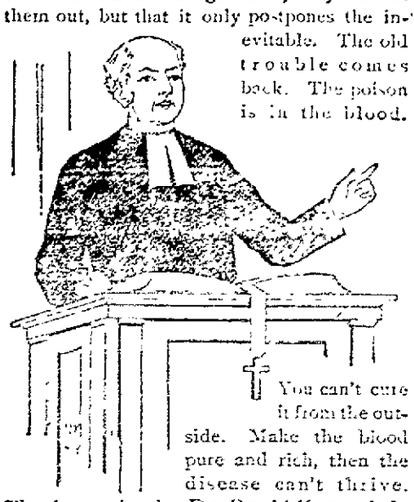
Saving Lives.

Doctors declare that cancerous growths cannot be cured. Surgeons say they can cut them out, but that it only postpones the inevitable. The old trouble comes back. The poison is in the blood.



You can't cure it from the outside. Make the blood pure and rich, then the disease can't thrive. That is exactly what Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is good for.

Rev. I. W. Hill, pastor of the M. E. Church at West Almond, N.Y., some years ago suffered with a cancer of long standing on the lip and concluded to have it removed. About three weeks before the operation he purchased Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, and continued taking it for some time after the cancer was removed. Ten long years have passed since then, and no trace of the ugly thing has returned.

This wonderful medicine acts as a nerve and blood food. It makes permanent cures of Nervous Debility, Sleeplessness, Dyspepsia, Rheumatism and all Women's Weaknesses. It restores the disordered liver to a healthy condition and cures constipation.

FLY A SPIDER'S UNDERTAKER.

Digs a Grave for His Dead Foe and Carefully Buries Him.

Samuel Simon, Sr., a well-known resident of Neshannock township, while strolling near his home one day recently noticed a fly about half an inch long and of a dark blue color, with a slim body, bearing a large dead spider. The fly crossed his path and laid his load down. It then went about 18 inches in another direction and commenced digging a hole in the ground, reports the Newcastle (Pa.) Democrat.

After the fly had the hole dug about half the length of himself he went to where he had left the spider and took his dimensions. After going back to the hole he found it was not big enough and commenced digging again.

He did this eight times, and as often enlarged the hole. After he had the excavation large enough for his purpose he went for the spider and took it to the mouth of the hole. After he had the body in he covered it with fine earth dirt and finished by placing a small piece of cinder on top. When he had finished the work he flew away. The whole time consumed was exactly 55 minutes, as Mr. Simon says he sat and watched the whole performance.

JACK RABBIT'S DOOM.

To Be Rounded Up for Their Fur, Used in Making Fine Hats.

The days of the Kansas jack rabbit are numbered, says the St. Louis Republic. New York parties have advertisements in many western Kansas newspapers offering three cents each for cured jack rabbit skins, culls and pieces three cents a pound and common cottontail skins 5½ cents per pound. The New York parties want the fur with which to make hats, and, as they represent European hat makers, it is stated that the traffic in rabbit furs has been transferred from Australia to the United States.

Skilled rabbit hunters in western Kansas can make good wages killing jack rabbits, and in the vicinity of Dodge City sportsmen are preparing for several grand roundups. Frequently the people of western Kansas have surrounded a large section of country, driven the rabbits to the center and slaughtered them by the thousand. The only disposition made of the pests was to ship them to Chicago and New York for food for the poor. They did not realize that rabbit hair entered largely into the manufacture of the finest hats.

FOR FALSE IMPRISONMENT.

Giuseppe Centanni Sues His Native Land For Heavy Damages.

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 5.—Giuseppe Centanni, an Italian, who has become an American citizen and lives in this city, has sent a petition to the secretary of state at Washington, in which he asks the state deparment to make a demand against the Italian government for $25,000, which he claims as damages for false imprisonment in Italy.

Centanni, it appears, was arrested in Marseilles on a charge of having murdered a man in Naples. After a long detention he was acquitted of the charge.

A dispatch from Washington says the state department has requested the United States consul at Naples to report upon the case.

Indian Murderer Arrested.

BOMBAY, Oct. 5.—Damodar Chapekar Deccani, a Brahmin advocate, and 28 others have been arrested for the murder of Plague Commissioner Rand and Lieutenant Ayerst while engaged last June in the Poonah district in enforcing the sanitary regulations. They were shot while leaving the governor's reception at Ganeshkind, the murderers being concealed behind some trees. Lieutenant Ayerst died instantly and Mr. Rand shortly afterward. The arrested men have confessed the murders, Deccani apparently being the principal in the crime. He has also confessed to having tarred the queen's statue in this city last year and acknowledged other offenses.

Major Powell Will Not Go.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—After a consultation between Secretary Alger and Major Powell, corps of engineers, who arrived here from Pittsburg, it was announced that that officer would not go to Nicaragua as the engineer officer of the canal commission. The secretary is now looking about for another engineer officer to take the place.

ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD.

A NEW DISBOVERY WHICH IS WORTH THAT MUCH.

To Anyone Afflicted With Piles.

The Pyramid Pile Cure, the new, painless remedy which has been so remarkably successful in curing every form of piles and rectal diseases, has recently been placed on sale at druggists and it is safe to say that when its extraordinary merit becomes fully known, there will be no such thing as surgical operations for the cure of this obstinate and common trouble.

Mrs. M. C. Hinkly, 601 Mississippi St., Indianapolis, Ind., says. I had been a terrible sufferer from piles for 15 years and no remedies benefitted me, until I saw an advertisement of the Pyramid Pile Cure. I got a package, also a package of Pyramid Pills and used both according to directions. I was astonished at the immediate relief obtained and now I honestly believe the Pyramid to be the only certain cure for piles.

That you may realize how bad I was, I will say that I was confined to my bed and went before the college physicians here who said my case was a new one to them and wanted seven or eight hundred dollars to undertake a cure the great pain brought on a rupture, and I knew an operation would be death to me on account of blood poisoning. Nearly every one here knows of my terrible suffering from piles and I feel that I can not praize the Pyramid Pile Cure enough and the Pyramid Pills also. My husband will join me in highly recommending the Pyramid; my daughter was cured by one box only. For several years I weighed but about 90 pounds, now I weigh 150 and feel in perfect health.

This seems to be the universal testimony of every sufferer from piles who has ever tried the Pyramid—it is the safest, most painless pile cure yet discovered; contains no opiate, morphine, cocaine or any poisonous ingredient whatever, has a soothing, healing effect from the first application, and the moderate price places it within the reach of everyone needing treatment. The Pyramid Pile Cure is sold by druggists at 50 cents and $1 per package and the Pyramid Pills at 25 cents per box.

ROBERT FULTON, Secretary

The Luetgert trial, with all its revolting details, is accomplishing one good thing It is demonstrating more clearly than any other trial has done the utter worthlessness of expert testimony

The man who reads most about Greater New York politics is the man who knows least about the situation. There never was such a muddle and what the outcome will be it is hard to guess.

A verdict of $1,789, given by a sympathetic jury in Maine to Arthur S. Melcher in a breach of promise suit, may serve as a warning to fickle maids that they cannot trifle with young men's affections.

The Republican city convention will be held to-night and the faction which was completely routed at the recent caucuses may attend and stand up in the rear of Justice Payne's office and watch "the old gang" push through the ticket which it has made out It is more than likely, however, that most of the "antis" will remain away and express their opinion on election day

The Democratic County Convention, which meets in Goshen, Thursday, will not lack for candidates There are several aspirants for each of the nominations in the convention's gift and the men who are anxious for places on the ticket believe that in spite of the big majority rolled up for the Republicans in the county, last fall, they have a fighting chance. And it may be added that some of the most astute Republican politicians in the county admit that last fall's figures will be scaled down in any event and some even say that if the machine rides rough shod over the minority and puts through its programme,—Strong for Sheriff and a third term for County Clerk Taggart—even the big margin that the party has may not save the ticket.

We have it on good authority that the Republican bosses have agreed on the following slate for Water Commissioners: E. Millen, in place of W. D. Stratton; J. E. Gibbs, in place of W. H. Rogers and A. J. Hornbeck in place of O. S. Fellows. Many moderate Republicans are, however, bitterly opposed to this programme, and, recognizing the special fitness of Mr. Stratton for service in the Board if the city's water supply system is to be extended, are urging their party to put the city's interests ahead of partisanship and give Mr. Stratton a place on the ticket. It will not, however, be easy to break the slate and it isn't of much importance any way. Mr. Stratton will undoubtedly be renominated by the Democrats and in his case a nomination ought to be equivalent to an election, for Middletown cannot afford to dispense with his services in the Water Board.

LUETGERT'S DEFENSE CLOSED.

The Prisoner Did Not Go on the Stand —Wanted to Do So but His Counsel Feared to Have Him.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—The defense in the Luetgert murder trial rested its case, today, after two witnesses had testified.

Luetgert did not go on the witness stand in his own defense. He yielded to the advice of his attorneys, but the disappointment to him was great. Luetgert's counsel feared to put him on the stand. He accepted the situation with a frown.

Soon after court convened ex-Judge Vincent and Attorney Phalen asked permission to consult with their client privately. Judge Tuthill said they might do so and Luetgert and his lawyers retired to a private room. It was known that the matter under deliberation was whether or not Luetgert should go upon the witness stand.

Ex-Judge Vincent vigorously opposed the suggestion. "You cannot add to it anything that will benefit you," said Judge Vincent, "If you go upon the witness stand you will be subjected to a cross-examination lasting days and covering the entire period of your life. You will get excited and say things which will injure your case. My advice to you is to keep mum."

Attorney Phalen was inclined to favor Luetgert's testifying but was willing to defer to Judge Vincent's judgment.

Mrs. Charles, wife of Luetgert's partner, testified that the rings alleged to have been found in the sausage vat were not those which had been worn by Mrs. Luetgert. Mrs. Charles had seen Mrs. Luetgert's rings many times, and was positive those submitted to her for inspection on the witness stand were not Mrs. Luetgert's The matter of the rings is the only accusation of the prosecution of which defense had not made some explanation, and Mrs. Charles's testimony created a sensation.

When the defense closed their case court adjourned until to-morrow. The prosecution says it will put eighty witnesses on the stand with rebutting testimony.

The Day of Atonement.

The Jewish fast day, the "Day of the Atonement," will be observed for one day, commencing to-day, Oct. 5th, at sunset. The "Day of the Atonement" is celebrated from the evening of the ninth to the evening of the tenth day of Tishri. The objects of this, the greatest and holiest of days, the Sabbath of Sabbaths, are purification, reconciliation and peace. The Israelites all over the world are assembled during the entire day in their respective places of public worship, and celebrating a solemn fast they pour out their hearts before their heavenly father, acknowledge their failings and ask for mercy and forgiveness.

WHICH WILL WIN?

Hot Contest for the Republican Nomination of Assessor.

The grand scrap of the evening at the Republican city convention, to-night, will be between "two of the boys" in favor of their respective "da'is." "Nelse" Knapp has entered his father, W. H. Knapp, in the race for the assessorship and "Ed" Van Duzer has entered his father, J. R. Van Duzer, in the same race. "Nelse" is one of the hardest Republican workers in the Second Ward, and his hated rival can carry the Fourth Ward primary any time he wants to. Each claims the delegates of his own ward, and each is hustling for those of the First and Third. At the caucus of Second Ward delegates, Monday night, it was decided to support Mr. Knapp.

At the Fourth Ward caucus, the same night, it was decided to support Mr. VanDuzer.

A point which is being urged with some force against the candidacy of Mr. Knapp is that he has had his full share of "bones" at the hands of the Republican party. When inspectors of election were elected Mr. Knapp's name, they say, was on the ticket, year after year, and they also point to the fact that he has been City Treasurer. They insist that in the account between Mr. Knapp and the Republican party the balance is on all Mr. Knapp's side, and that he has been more than paid for whatever rooting he has done for the party. The impudence of ex-Treasurer Knapp's son in setting himself up, last fall, as a candidate for the nomination for Supervisor, on which Boss Boyd thinks he has a life lease, is also being used against Mr. Knapp.

Mr. VanDuzer's friends claim to have the First and Fourth Ward delegates, and Daniel Finn, being delegate-at-large, will ~~vote for him, even if the other wards~~ are for Mr. Knapp.

Walden officers made a raid, Sunday night, on an old barn on the outskirts of the village which a number of boys and young men were using as a resort. They found nine boys, whose ages range from twelve to eighteen years and one man of twenty-nine, all of them engaged in card playing. The whole party was taken into custody.

A Divorce Suit That Did Not End as the Plaintiff Expected.

The item concerning the Blauvelt divorce case, which was published in last night's ARGUS and which was copied from a Newburgh paper, was erroneous. The action was brought by Dr. Blauvelt, but Mrs. Blauvelt not only established her innocence but her undoubted right to a decree on the ground of her husband's faithlessness.

Member of a Suicide Club Kills Himself

It is now believed that Mae Gleason, the attractive young woman who killed herself at the Cedar Hotel, in Glenham, Dutchess county, last week, was a member of a suicide club in New York, and had talked and brooded over self destruction until death had come to have a sort of terrible fascination for her. Letters found among her effects bear out this theory. The young woman's body was buried in the Potter's Field at Fishkill.

THE DEACON'S DONATION.

BY MARY E. MITCHELL.

THE minister met the deacon just as the latter was opening his small white gate.

"Well, Brother Farnham," the minister exclaimed, seizing his hand, "I am glad to see you! My heart has been full of surprise and grati" to all say it's a blessed thing you've done, deacon, a blessed thing; and your reward will be a rich one, I am sure."

The deacon looked dazed.

"I don't take in your meaning, Mr. Ladd," he said, rescuing an unwilling hand from the minister's embarrassing grasp.

"Oh, now, deacon," went on Mr Ladd, his ardor in nowise damped. "You needn't pretend you don't know what I mean. You can't hide a good deed like this; its light will shine. Everybody knows it by this time, and, best of all, the Lord knows it, deacon, and He'll bless you. I just wanted to get in my personal thanks. Don't say a word," and the minister was off before the uncomprehending deacon could gather his scattered wits.

"By gum!" he ejaculated, as he looked after the minister's retreating form.

This was the strongest expletive Deacon Farnham ever allowed himself, and when he made use of it he produced it with great deliberation and force.

"Now, what's the parson got into his head?" he went on to himself, as he walked up the path which led to his house. "It beats me! It can't be that mess of pease I sent him he's so everlastingly grateful for—bringing in the Lord in that way."

But the question was too puzzling, and he gave it up before he reached his door.

The deacon sat down on the kitchen stoop and took the Greenhill Chronicle from his pocket. He put his straw hat on the step beside him and settled for a comfortable reading of the weekly news, letting the minister and his mysterious gratitude drop out of his mind, as a subject too exciting for the warm day.

All about him stretched his broad fields, bearing promise of full harvest, and his green orchards, laden with rich abundance of young fruit. The whole farm bore witness to unstinted care and consequent prosperity.

The afternoon air was hot and heavy, the drone of the bees drowsy, and Deacon Farnham's head went on involuntary little journeys as he sat on the step with the paper in his hand. The Chronicle drooped lower and lower, and would have fallen from his grasp had not his eye, in one of his lucid moments, caught sight of something which caused him to bring back his wandering head with a jerk and startled him into wide wakefulness.

It was his own name which so aroused him, and he adjusted his spectacles and straightened his paper.

"It has reached our editorial ears that Deacon Farnham, of Upland farm, has donated the generous sum of $200 towards the building of the new Congregational church. Minister Ladd is to be congratulated on being able to count such a liberal and public-minded parishioner as one of his flock."

The deacon laid down his paper with a sniff of disgust.

"So that's it!" he said, aloud. "Of all the fools!" And he struck his fist on his knee.

Nothing could be further from the deacon's mind than to give one cent towards the building of the little church, to say nothing of $200.

Not but that he could afford it; the deacon was "well off," but he was also "close." Little of the profit which so readily flowed into his pocket was ever bestowed in free and ungrudging gifts. Only the necessities of life found their way into his household, and the neighbors spoke pityingly of Mrs. Farnham; she had so little to "do with."

Furthermore, if a fit of generosity had chanced to come over the deacon's spirit, the new church building down in the village was not likely to receive the benefit of it. He had shown no interest in its erection from the very first. The old meeting house was dilapidated and fast falling into decay, but the deacon could not see any reason for forsaking it.

No wonder the deacon's irritation grew as he reread the startling announcement of the Chronicle.

"Well, I'll have that settled before the sun goes down," he exclaimed, rising to his feet. "Guess I better put this where Maria won't get hold of it," he added, folding the paper carefully and returning it to his pocket. "She's dead set on that foolishness, Maria is."

A few moments later Deacon Farnham was climbing the steep and dusty steps which led to the office of the Greenville Weekly Chronicle. He found the editor at his desk, in his shirt sleeves, taking life easy.

"Well, Deacon Farnham, this is an unexpected pleasure! Sit down," was his greeting.

"Look here, young man!" puffed the deacon, out of breath from the exertion of climbing, but refusing the proffered chair, "you're getting altogether too smart in that paper of yours—making free with my name in that style."

"Oh, you mustn't be so modest, deacon. A good deed like that ought to be known."

This interpretation of his protest was unexpected to the deacon, and he had to begin again:

"I don't know what idiot told you that tale, but it's a lie, and you can take it back in your next. When I give $200—which won't be soon—it'll be somewhere else than to that church folly. Do you understand? I want it contradicted in your next."

"Certainly, Deacon Farnham," replied the editor, in cool contrast to the deacon's irritation. "I thought at the time it must be a mistake, but Totem was so dead sure I let it go in. He heard it from some of your church people, he said. Must have got you mixed up with somebody else. Sorry it caused you any annoyance. I'll make it all right next week." And the editor returned to his business, which consisted, just then, of smoking a cigar and reading a late novel.

The deacon clumped downstairs, his contrary old mind even more rumpled than when he went up.

"Humph!" he grunted to himself. "They're an impudent set, those newspaper fellows; the whole lot of them. Thought it wasn't true, did he? I'd like to know what right he had to think it wasn't true."

As the deacon was crossing the little square which formed the business center of the village, he met Mr. Wright, a brother deacon in the church.

"Well, Farnham," exclaimed Deacon Wright, "this is a fine growing day. That's great news of you in the Chronicle. Seen it?"

"I've seen that newspaper lie, if that's what you mean," growled Deacon Farnham.

Deacon Wright laughed.

"Brother Little was asking me about it just now, and I told him there wasn't a word of truth in it, and that you'd be mighty mad when you saw it. Wonder where they got hold of such a yarn, anyhow?"

Deacon Farnham watched his brother deacon until he disappeared in the grocery store. Then he turned slowly and continued his way.

That evening, after supper, the deacon was strolling about his farm. Suddenly the twilight stillness was broken by belligerent sounds which seemed to proceed from behind the big barn. Hastening to the spot the deacon discovered his youngest son, a lad of 11, in fierce combat with a neighbor's boy.

"Joseph!" sternly commanded the deacon, collaring his son and shaking him free. "What are you thinking of? Haven't I expressly forbidden your fighting?"

Joseph, defenseless in the firm grasp of his father, began to whimper, while his opponent vanished with remarkable alacrity.

"What do you mean, sir? Answer me!" continued Deacon Farnham, giving his prisoner another shake.

"I wasn't really fighting," pleaded Joseph. "I was only punching Job Tucker for saying things about you."

"About me? Well, what did he say about me? Out with it!"

"Why," stammered Joseph, "he said there warn't no truth in—in what the paper said, and I said it wan't none of his business if there wan't, and—and he said his father said you was too mean to give a pewter penny, and as for $200, you couldn't afford it any way."

The deacon let go of his son's collar and walked away, leaving Joseph much surprised and relieved as his speedy release.

The deacon's brows were drawn in a heavy scowl. He did not mind being called mean—he was used to that, but the last imputation rankled in his breast.

There had always been a slight, unacknowledged jealousy between these two farmers whose fields lay side by side.

Mr. Tucker had contributed $200 himself towards the church funds, and had received much praise for his act.

"So Tucker says I can't afford it!" he muttered to himself. "I'd just like to give him and all these folks who know so much a surprise that would make them talk to some purpose. But it would be just foolishness and a waste of money into the bargain. Can't afford it, hey!" The deacon chuckled in spite of his wrath. "I could give them something to talk about!" he repeated.

The next day Mrs. Farnham had an early dinner in order that she might get "cleared up" and go to the sewing-circle. When she returned, late in the afternoon, her husband was seated in his accustomed place on the back steps.

The deacon had a profound contempt for sewing-circles.

"Their tongues go a sight faster'n their needles," he often said.

Now he greeted his wife with: "Well, Maria, what's the latest gossip?"

A tinge of red came into Mrs. Farnham's faded cheeks. "Why, Israel," she replied, smoothing down her best black silk, shiny from long service, "we talked about a great many things. We spoke of the new church—"

"I'll warrant you did!" interrupted the deacon.

"They told me that the Chronicle said you'd given $200 towards the new building. Did you ever hear such a story?"

"Humph!" responded her husband. "What did you say?"

"Say?" answered Mrs. Farnham. "Why, that there wasn't a word of truth in it, of course. I told them you wouldn't hear to the idea a minute, much less give $200, which is a mortal sight of money."

Deacon Farnham rose to his feet. He did not look towards his wife.

"I must say, Maria," he exclaimed, sharply, "you took a great deal on yourself! How do you know but what the paper said is true—or going to be?" he added to himself; and he walked off, leaving his wife staring after him in dumb amazement.

The next day the deacon stood again in the editorial office. He seemed a trifle embarrassed and conscious, and his efforts to speak in a natural, off-hand manner only resulted in giving his tones a deeper gruffness.

"I just dropped in," he said, "to say you needn't bother about correcting that statement in regard to my giving $200 to the new church. Just let it stand—or, if you've got to say any more about it, make it $50 better!" And the deacon got away as fast as he could.

"Tucker'll find that a pill to swallow!" he chuckled to himself.

"Whew!" whistled the editor, as the deacon closed the door. "I wonder whatever brought the old man to that? I shouldn't wonder if it was sheer contrariness."—Leslie's Weekly.

Hopelessly lost to happiness is the woman who neglects the health of the most important and delicate organs of her body. If she is weak and sick and nervous, she cannot be cheerful and amiable; she cannot make her home pleasant for herself, or for her husband, or for her children. Health is the thing most worth having in all the world. It is the thing that makes all other good things good, and yet four out of five women are sick and weak and make no real effort to get well. Every one of them can be well, if she wants to. Women go on for years suffering in silence, and then some day they find out about Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—and they take it and get well. It is a positive specific for all weakness and disease of the female organs. Thousands of women have testified to this fact. Among them Mrs. Maud Pearce, of Stoutsville, Fairfield Co., Ohio, who writes:

"Please accept my thanks for the good your medicines have done me. I truly believe that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription saved my life. It is also a certain cure for female troubles. I am now in perfect health. I am stout and can do all my housework. Nothing did me any good until I heard of you. Now I am well at last by taking your medicines. My good health pleases me and delights my husband. He wants me to give you his good wishes. Every invalid lady should take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery.'"

Headache, heart-burn, sour stomach, foul taste in the mouth, biliousness, pimples, and palpitation of the heart are all caused by constipation, and constipation is cured positively and permanently by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. They never gripe and are perfectly natural and easy in their action. Druggists sell them.

The Examiners in the Different Subjects—The Meetings of the Club Begun This Afternoon—Address of Welcome by Dr. Wilson and Response by Presiding Elder Schriver—Dr. Day's Lecture, "A Mile a Minute," To-night

The examination of the students' class at the meeting of the Itinerants Club was concluded in the lecture room of the First Presbyterian Church, this morning.

The subjects and examiners were:

The visitors were given a dinner in the lecture room of St. Paul's Church at 12:30.

At 2:45 devotional exercises were conducted by Dr. J. E. Price, secretary of the club and pastor of the Highland Avenue Church, of Sing Sing. He gave an exegesis on "Isaiah's Call."

At 3:20 Rev. Dr. F. L. Wilson made a cheery address, extending a hearty welcome to the guests. He was in a particularly happy mood and livened up the gathering immensely.

Rev. Andrew Schriver responded. Next on the programme was Rev. Dr. McChesney, of the Calvary M. E. Church, New York city, whose subject was "The Kenosis, or self emptying." Dr. McChesney, who has studied in Germany, is a particularly scholarly gentleman. He has written extensively on theological matters. His discourse was being given as the ARGUS goes to press.

Those present were anticipating a treat in Rev. Ismar J. Perits's lecture upon "Recent biblical research and its use in biblical exposition." Dr. Peritz is professor in the Oriental Department of the Syracuse University. He was born in Breslau, and acquired his education in Germany, London and Harvard.

At 5 o'clock Rev. Dr. Price will conduct a conference of students.

THIS EVENING'S MEETING.

At 7:30, Rev. Dr. J. G. Oakley, one of St. Paul's former popular pastors, will conduct a service of praise and song. He will be followed by Dr. J. R. Day, Chancellor of Syracuse University. His lecture, "A mile a minute," is pronounced very interesting.

A Hen's Long Imprisonment.

From Our Mt. Salem Correspondent.

While the threshers were at M. W Elston's last week, they uncovered a brown Leghorn hen which had been in the mow of oats fully two months without water and with only the few oats it could reach from the small space in which it was confined. She was very thin and weak, but apparently all right.

ON THE TIP OF THE TONGUE.

Dr. Willett Kidd said to the writer, Saturday, at Goshen: "The infernal carp is spoiling the fishing in the Wallkill River. He is a worthless hog which I would like to see exterminated. The fishermen in your vicinity should make application to seine them out, and if they will do so I will take the matter to Albany. It would add much to the pleasure of fishing in the Wallkill, in a year or so, to get out a lot of the carp."

Who will start the movement?

Dr. G. O. Green, who was general manager of the Horse Show, states that next year he hopes to introduce polo to Orange county, and the hounds as well. He states that the land in this county is admirable for fox-hunting and the lower end of Orange county is but forty miles from New York city. During the past five years the county has paid bounty on 3,000 foxes. True, most of these foxes were shot in the mountains, but the doctor truly says that where there are foxes in the mountains they must come down to the chicken coops. He believes that a large tract of very desirable land could be secured at a very reasonable price and the bloods stand ready to buy. The location of a hunting club would certainly enhance the value of surrounding property. Polo as played at Westchester and on Long Island would also prove highly enjoyable to the residents of this county.

The Lincoln Club, of Paterson, which is to visit here Tuesday, October 26, is one of the strongest and most prominent political clubs in New Jersey.

It has been in existence but two years and it includes in its membership such well known men as Vice President Hobart, Gov. Griggs, President Wright, Alderman J. J. Post, W. W. Stalter, Sheriff Hopson, Senator Williams, Assemblymen King, Gledhill, Atherton, and Stalter, Congressman J. H. Stewart, Freeholder Jacob Gerow and other well known Republican politicians.

This club was instrumental in securing the nomination of Gov. Griggs.

Carterer W. R. Rowley entertained a committee Sunday, and he thinks that a day's pleasure may be expected when they come here.

The more one gets at the inside of the Christien shooting affair the plainer it becomes that everybody in the immediate vicinity at the time of the shooting was more or less afraid to make any attempt to arrest Christien. Treasurer Grant's story plainly shows that not only did he feel a little "skeery," but that the officials near at hand evinced a desire to keep away from the range of the dangerous shooter.

Apropos of this affair it may be said that the Christien house is located in a particularly lonesome part of the Sullivan County Club tract. It stands upon a clearing up the steep hill from the boat house. It is a small cottage, of no architectural beauty, and the front yard is a nest of stumps and frost-bitten briars, while a small lawn has been attempted close to the stoop. The garden is in the rear of the house on a westerly slope. The spot where Pritchard's body was found, marked yet by blood-stained bushes and moss, is fully fifty yards from the porch of the house. Constable Manny staggered from the scene of Pritchard's murder 100 yards through the bushes, over a deep but dry ditch, coming out on the road leading to and fifty yards from the boat house.

No testimony has been given which shows how far Christien sent his fatal bullets. If he stood at the house his aim was wonderful. He could hit anything, hence it is evident that he did not shoot to kill, else he would certainly have plowed their skulls or punctured their hearts.

Another point which is unsatisfactory to one who has heard Constable Manny's stories and who knows of the course taken by the bullets is: How did he shoot both men in the back or groin while they were seated in the wagon and yet fail to hit the back of the seat?

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature to do its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for lists of testimonials.

THE ARNOUT AUCTION.

A Very Large Attendance — Holstein Cows Averaged $47, the Highest Price Being $87.

The auction sale of the farm property of the late Egbert J. Arnout, in Wawayanda, to-day, was one of the largest farm auctions ever held in Orange county.

The attendance was very large, good judges estimating the number present at from 1,500 to 2,000. Their rigs were tied along the road for a long distance and the fields were also filled with them. Joshua Case, Jr., was auctioneer.

The chief interest of the farmers centered in the sale of the fine herd of full blooded Holsteins. The bidding was not very spirited, however, the Holsteins having been barred from the dairies of farmers selling milk to the Borden condensery at Johnson and not being looked upon with favor by the managers of other condenseries and creameries.

The highest price obtained for any of the cows sold up to 1 o'clock was $87, which was bid by Glover Clapham, of Bloomingburgh. Mr. Clapham bought two other cows for $62 and $70 respectively.

For fifteen cows sold the average price was $47. The lowest price paid was $26.

The household furniture, farming implements and other articles sold brought good prices.

The farm will be offered at auction when the personal property is sold.

IN THE RAILROAD WORLD.

—Over 600 cars a day are now transferred at Newburgh from the Erie to the New England Railroad.

—The Erie has begun the improvement of its station at Passaic. The present building will be entirely remodeled, and at least $8,000 will be spent in the projected alterations.

—During the temporary absence of the night ticket agent, Friday night, the Erie's ticket office at Susquehanna was entered by burglars and several mileage books and between $40 and $50 were stolen.

—The Greenwood Lake Railroad's double track was put in use, Thursday, when the fall and winter schedule took effect. The work has been in progress for sixteen months and the double track extends from the county road on the meadows to Pompton Junction.

—This is convention week. The Republican City Convention will be held Tuesday evening and the Democratic City Convention Wednesday evening. The Republican County Convention meets Wednesday at Goshen, and the Democratic County Convention Thursday at the same place. In all the towns in this section of the county nominations will be made this week.
